ADMISSIONS TERMINOLOGY

GULF COAST STATE COLLEGE'S UPWARD BOUND (UB) PROJECT

EARLY DECISION (ED) I & II

Applying for admissions at select schools between Aug. 1 & Nov. 1 of your senior year. If accepted, you're binded to attend that college and withdraw all other admission applications.

EARLY ACTION (EA)

Applying by December so colleges can act early on your admission. You'll hear back sooner, but are not binded to attend if accepted. May be called Restrictive Early Action or Single-Choice Early Action.

REGULAR DECISION

The traditional admissions timeline of applying by January 1 & receiving a decision by May 1st. You can apply to multiple schools & wait to compare options.

ROLLING ADMISSION/DECISION

Schools review applications as they come in and give decisions on a rolling basis. In other words, there's no fixed deadline. You should still apply early, though, to improve your chances of being admitted.

OPEN ADMISSIONS

Almost anyone with a high school diploma or equivalency can enroll whenever they decide to start or restart college. Gulf Coast State College is an example of open admissions!

DEFERRED

If you apply ED or EA and aren't accepted or rejected outright, your application may be "deferred" to the Regular Admissions/Decision pool—where it will be reconsidered later.

WAITLISTED

You've neither been accepted nor rejected but placed on a waitlist. If spots open up (e.g., enrolled students decline or chose other schools), you might get in—but there's no guarantee.

CONDITIONAL ADMISSIONS

A school wants to see if you can handle college in the summer before fully admitting you. If you earn good enough grades, you'll be fully admitted for the fall semester.

DEPOSIT FEES

Payments you make after being accepted to reserve your spot at a college. Deposit fees can often be waived and are sometimes applied toward your first semester's tuition/bill.
